Clarity Safeguarding Policy September 2026

Legislation and Statutory Guidance

Governing boards of maintained schools must have an instrument of government which sets out information about how the board is constituted. This requirement is set out in The School Governance \(Constitution\) \(England\) Regulations 2012, part 5, regulation 28.

However, for Independent Schools, there is no statutory requirement to have a Governing body, as stated in the Independent School Standards, which all Independent Schools are legally obliged to satisfy:

34. (1) The standard about the quality of leadership and management is met if the proprietor ensures that persons with leadership and management responsibilities at the school—
(a) demonstrate good skills and knowledge appropriate to their role so that the independent school standards are met consistently;
(b) fulfil their responsibilities effectively so that the independent school standards are met consistently; and
(c) actively promote the well-being of pupils.
(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(c) “well-being” means well-being within the meaning of section 10(2) of the Children Act 2004(9).

(Independent School Standards, www.legislation.gov.uk)

In addition, the Independent School Standards Guidance from the DfE, states, in Part 8: Quality of Leadership and Management of Schools, that:

“Section 94 of the Education and Skills Act 2008 requires that in addition to those matters covered by the standards described above [Parts 1-7], the Secretary of State must prescribe standards relating to the quality of leadership in and management of independent schools. As is the case with the other standards, the approach behind this standard is to focus on required outcomes. It is not the intention to tell schools how to govern or manage themselves – i.e. about how they are to go about achieving the required outcomes.”

(Independent School Standards Guidance, www.assets.publishing.service.gov.uk)

The School agrees that the best standard of leadership is to focus on its impact for pupils and families through achieving the required outcomes, rather than judging the governance itself as the vehicle. Whilst intention and implementation are important, where are they without a successful, fruitful, impact, which is advantageous for all stakeholders?

The Proprietor of Clarity Independent School (‘The School’) recognises the importance of regular, cohesive, dynamic monitoring of staff and check-and-challenge of leadership, including of the Headteacher (HT) herself, to ensure the highest quality service is provided for all users, and believes it is necessary to demonstrate rigorous accountability processes are in place.

The school’s model for accountability is based on several legislative and guidance documents to ensure that all roles are provided for within the School’s Governance, Check-and-Challenge and Accountability for Leadership Policy (‘This Policy’):

- Model instrument of government in Annex C of statutory guidance for maintained schools, August 2017. DfE.
- The Education (Independent School Standards) Regulations 2014 (Revised April 2026). Legislation.gov.uk.
- The Independent School Standards Guidance for Independent Schools, April 2019 (Revised April 2026). DfE.

- What Governing Boards Should Expect from Each Other, Updated 2022. National Governance Association (NGA).
- Governance in Academy Trusts Guide and Maintained Schools Guide, updated 7th March 2024. DfE.
- The Competency Framework for Governance, January 2017. DfE (has now been replaced by the two Guides above).
- The Key Support for Leaders Documents (www.schoolleaders.thekeysupport.com):
 - Governing Boards Statutory Responsibilities, reviewed 31st July 2023.
 - Responsibilities of the Governing Board KeyDoc, reviewed 25th March 2024.

Rationale

Getting governance right is important because of the significant impact it has on the quality of educational provision and the opportunity and life chances of children ('What Governors and HT should expect from each other,' National Governance Association, Updated 2022). The aim of a governing body, should a school have one, is to get governance of the school right, by the HT and Governors working together, being mutually supportive and respecting each other's roles and responsibilities.

However, (considering the three elements of effective Governance which can only be applied to the Governors' themselves as being satisfied where there is no governing board) there are five remaining elements to effective governance which are incorporated into the School's robust system for check-and-challenge of leadership to ensure effective accountability is in place.

The eight elements of effective governance

Respective roles of governors and HT

A key aspect of governors (if a school has them) and HT's effective working relationship is respecting the difference between strategic governance and operational management.

- The governing board is expected to concentrate on delivering its core strategic functions.
- The headteacher is expected to implement the strategic priorities of the governing board through their day-to-day management of the school.

In Clarity Independent School, the challenge of not having a governing board, is that the HT as Proprietor, acts both similar to the governing body in strategic governance and by implementing the priorities through day-to-day operational management of the school. This is the reason why the School has four (HT + 3 more) full time members of the Senior Leadership Team (SLT) who do not ordinarily teach routine lessons so that there is ample support for the HT in implementing the strategic priorities through all aspects of day-to-day management of the school.

Although this is a challenge, it allows the Proprietor to have strategic oversight of the school priorities and directional strategy, whilst being actively involved and having 'feet on the ground'. All too often, it is easy for leaders to simply forget what it is like to be running on the ground. Also, there is a risk of more

‘removed’ leaders putting over-ambitious, less relevant, contrary policies and procedures in place, or simply having ineffective priorities to deliver the best outcomes specifically for the services users themselves, which are the pupils.

Aims

To provide alternative routes to achieve the same high-quality outcomes of accountability as traditional Governance would have in their core functions:

- Ensuring clarity of vision, ethos and strategic direction
- Holding executive leaders to account for the educational performance of the organisation and its pupils, and the effective and efficient performance management of staff
- Overseeing financial performance of the organisation and making sure its money is spent wisely

(The Key for Leaders, www.thekeysupport.com)

The HT as Proprietor of the company, meets the 5 remaining core elements of effective leadership stated in ‘What Governing Boards and Headteachers Should Expect From Each Other’:

- Understanding roles and responsibilities
- Courageous conversations
- Knowing the school
- Asking challenging questions
- Good relationships based on trust

The HT and SLT team have set the School’s ethos and vision, which flows into the school’s mission statement and informs all of the School’s Policies and procedures;

“To provide motivating, fun, tailor-made education, at a level, pace and content specifically matched to meet the children’s needs.

To address learning difficulties, not merely accept them as being static and final, rather to provide therapies and interventions, to heal, where possible, to develop improvements in the children’s skills, to exceed expected progress and to lessen the impact that learning difficulties can have on the rest of their lives.

To provide a fresh start in learning, where it has previously not been possible.

To provide for the children’s needs, to enable them to enjoy learning, love being here, and be excited to come to school each day.”

Terminology

We use “Governors” in this document to mean governing bodies in local authority (LA) maintained schools and federations, trust boards in a single academy trust (SAT) and regional or academy level committees, sometimes called the local governing body.

We use ‘Headteacher’ (HT) to mean those responsible for the overall management of a school, a federation of schools or an academy. This includes the HT of a single school and executive leader of a federation.

Governing is the overseeing of the control and direction of something, in this case, a school. Governing helps to always act in the best interest of the ‘business’, i.e. to improve the performance, increase the stability and productivity, unlock new opportunities, reduce risks and enable faster growth.

Core Values

The Proprietor agrees to:

- Be mindful that in exercising all their functions, they act with integrity, objectivity and honesty and in the best interests of the school
- Be open about the decisions they make and the actions they take

- Be a role model regarding working with all parties involved in supporting the school, in accordance with 'The 7 principles of public life', as set out by Lord Nolan. These principles apply to anyone, locally and nationally, who is elected or appointed as a public office-holder. They are selflessness, integrity, objectivity, accountability, openness, honesty and leadership.
- Make all staff members of the school, and external parties coming to work in the school, aware of the Nolan Principles and requests that they adhere to them.
